Mr. Taft says judges ought to wear gowns always. A judge in black silk impresses the observer, till the culprit with axe. That is to President Taft's sound view.

The American judge must feel sadly in silk, as the English judge in his wig must feel silly, if he has any sense of humor. But man much closer to his monkey ancestor than to his ultimate perfected description, does little thinking and says nothing unprepared chiefly by what is usual.

Hence the success of the movies, the appeal to the eye in all relations overmastering the rainbow created to represent the fragrance most widely known and real, being among the first gifts that the wise Magi brought to the Babe of Bethlehem.

What can all the engineering societies, including Dr. Butler head of Columbia University, show their ears and invited their editor of smell. Their sense of smell is of course senseless, since odorless ammonia, since odorless hydrocyanic acid, lemon oil, bay rum, alcohol and the pestilence.

The only one he could name was "hay fever sufferer always provides." Dr. Butler excused himself, saying, "the sense of smell is the least intellectual of the senses."

Dr. Butler is right. Many animals rely upon it almost entirely in their judgement of strangers, and with all animals, including men, it represents the most intense connection of the outside world with the brain. World would have manufactured so many different dowers, so many perfumes, from heavy musk to fine hint will forever had the sense of smell been the "least intellectual." The senses are like the strings of a violin, necessary to a perfect tune, and to a perfectly equipped human being.

Germany accepts the Allies' terms and will try to pay thirty-three thousand millions of dollars in gold. Of course we will get most of the money paid, and, strange to relate, the value of German money goes up and the value of French money goes down on the day of the announcement.

France will spend the money maintaining a gigantic army, in idleness, to watch Germany. Germany's people will be at work, intensely productive, perfecting industry, and free from army service, raising very large families.

How will that affect France in the end?

It is the opinion of Walter Howey, who always edits and publishes first the most important diary written by ladies who kill their gentlemen friends, that there is no limit to the strangeness of female nature. Mrs. Mabel J. Thomas confirms Howey's theory She lived Nicholas Miller very much, killed him to prove it, and then killed herself. Her last words were "We'll be sweethearts in heaven." This shows confidence in the forgiving nature of Nicholas. Fortunately for him, they don't shoot in heaven, and they can't do so he will be physically safe But he'll be a nervous angel.

Joseph G. Dolan, of Charlestown, Mass., resents the statement in this column that Lucifer lives in the coldest region, frozen in the ice. Nevertheless, he does, according to Dante, only first-class writer that ever went down to see.

"'Lo!' he exclaimed. 'Lo! Dis; and lo! The place where thou hast need to arm thy heart with strength.'"

"That emperor, who sways the realm of sorrow, at mid-breast from the ice stood forth."

Mr. Dolan ought to read that description of Satan frozen in the ice flapping "two mighty wings, enormous as became a bird so vast." It is the flapping of those wings that freezes the depths of hell. That flapping produced: ". . . three winds, wherewith Cocytus to its depths was frozen."

Breaks Long Silence and Launches Bitter Tirade on His Accusers

Montreal, May 12—The chivalrous blood of his ancestors, for weeks stinging the heart of Fred A. Beauvais, today reached the boiling point.

No longer able to sustain his proud silence, which he has broken only once, during the amazing James A. Stillman divorce drama began his child of the North woods denounced his persecutors.

He spoke words of the ex-bank president the like scored Dr. Hugh S. Russell, Buffalo corespondent, pronounced the so-called "Dear Hersey" letters and analyzed those fervent epistles in an interview with the correspondent of Universal Service.

London, May 12.—Great Britain's industrial crisis has become so acute that the nation is threatened with revolution unless there is an early solution of the troubles.

It is estimated that there are now 4,950,000 wholly idle or partially idle workers in Great Britain.

The chaotic condition of the industrial world is simply appalling, say declared Horatio Bottomley, M. P. "Unless some permanent machinery of peace can be devised we will never be rescued from the hair's breadth from unspeakable disaster."

Boston Merchants Ask New Tax Plan

By International News Service.

Washington, May 12.—The dissatisfaction of various organizations of business and professional men in New England with the present industrial revenue system and their plans for betterment, including the abolition of the turnover sales tax, were laid before Treasury Department officials today by representatives of the Massachusetts Retail Merchants' Association and the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The Boston business men arrived in Washington yesterday and went immediately to the capitol, where they conferred at length with members of the Massachusetts delegation in the House and with members of the Senate finance committee, which is now considering proposals for tax revision.

They are scheduled to appear before the committee, and at that time will be given an opportunity to present their tax arguments in full.

It is understood they have already advised members of the committee to first examine them in detail on the various points which they will present, with the purpose of giving the senate tax law framers a clear insight into things for change.

Guy W. Cox, chairman of the tax committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, is representing that organization in Washington. With him is a committee of the Massachusetts Retail Merchants' Association, which includes Charles F. Baron, Felix Forcmirer, George W. Mitten, Morris Wrigley and Arthur Madison, all of Boston, and C. Hudson Johnson of Lynn, Mass. Madison is secretary of the association.

DOCTOR'S WARD IN ESCAPADE

Tells Milford, Ct., Police She Followed Impulse to Have "Good Time"

Miss Helen Nolan, beautiful eighteen-year-old brunette, ward of a leading Boston physician, was taken into custody by the police of Milford, Ct., following the disappearance of $2,000 from the physician's office here.

She still had $1,821, police state, and said she had spent the rest for clothes and "a good time."

The physician refused to make a formal complaint against her and brought her back to Boston.

He is quoted as saying that he was to blame more than the girl, as he showed her the $2,000 in cash and then left her alone in the house.

Miss Nolan left the Boston home of her guardian last saturday and spent that day and night and Sunday with her grandmother in Milford.

Monday night she stayed at the Hotel Stratfield, and then moved to the Milford Inn, where she was when taken into custody.

Miss Nolan is said to have told police who questioned her that she acted on impulse and would have gone back to Boston in a few days in any event.

The case as been enveloped in mystery by the Connecticut authorities, who refuse to disclose the names of the physicians or the girl's grandmother.

Sinn Fein Leader Willing to Make Peace Without Complete Independence

Dublin, May 12.—The first definite information that the 700-year-old Irish question may be settled soon without granting a complete independence to Ireland is found in the peace terms which are to be submitted to Great Britain.

That the Sinn Fein leaders are now prepared to come to an agreement with England, by which Ireland is to be known as the "Free Commonwealth of Ireland," is disclosed by a high source of information in giving the terms that are to be offered by President Eamon De Valera.

From a confidential source Universal Service has obtained the following summary of President De Valera's minimum terms of peace.

Municipal Lighting in Holyoke a Success

The municipal lighting plant in Holyoke is cited as a notable example of the success and general satisfaction of such a publicly-owned venture by those who are backing the drive for a municipal lighting plant in Boston.

Although much smaller, with perhaps less facilities and many more problems than the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, the Holyoke city plant supplies its customers with light five cents cheaper than does the Edison Company to its thousands of patrons in Boston.

And the Holyoke plant has established a "Free Service Bureau" which repairs vacuum cleaners, electric irons, electric washers, toasters, fans and all other appliances without a penny charge. The great and prosperous Edison Company wouldn't think of showing its customers such a favor, which would mean great saving to housekeepers, it is charged.

Critics of the Edison Company say it is too prosperous, independent and greedy, too arrogant and strongly entrenched to exhibit any such sordid solicitation for its customers, although it easily could install such a bureau.

GUIDE SAYS DOCTOR LIED IN PARENTAGE CONFESSION STORY

STILLMAN "TREADING ON DANGEROUS GROUND"

It was the second time Stillman had admitted to his friend Beauvais that he was the father of children by a woman other than his wife.

Dangerous ground is referred to in other correspondence, if such indeed is necessary to absolutely prove the case.

It was informed that another man, a prominent lately married and of the highest social standing, considered by this man almost as a brother, was the father of the children who was a partner with this man, at the time of the birth of the children, in an immense amount of business and a gentleman, I hear, who is in high favor in the good graces of the wife of that father.

Warns Stillman on Dangerous Ground

"It is well that the names used come too closely in rhyme, coupled with the man's social here the guide gave the name of one of New York's leading citizens and financiers. "Stillman and Jay" were children together, they were reared in their social atmosphere as brother and sister. If anything should come out of this from Stillman's name he is likely to encounter a man who will not stop at a mere challenge for a duel."

It was learned from an authentic source today that only a year ago the number just Beauvais in the lobby of the Hotel Crillon, At that time Stillman nodded cordially at Beauvais and did not indicate what was the point in regard to avoiding a domestic tragedy.

Beauvais is particularly attached to discussing Mr. Russell, whose glowing eyes on the witness stand in regard to the parentage of Ruth Fay shocked

Mrs. Stillman Shown Indian Verse Writer

It was revealed that Mrs. Stillman is also a writer of poetry, especially verses dealing with Indian tradition and aboriginal life. In this respect she often wrote to Beauvais asking him for a definition of words in an Indian dialect.

While Stillman is charged with forging these letters and who handled some of the correspondence at Bar Harbor at which Miss Fay was present, Count De Beauvais, tried to establish that Stillman had written them himself. Beauvais declared, and

Indian Guide Points Out Discrepancies in Notes

By GENE FOWLER,
Staff Correspondent of Universal Service.

Montreal, May 12.—Fred Beauvais branded as forgeries today the seven letters published in New York last Saturday morning and inserting by lawyers for James A. Stillman to have been written by Beauvais to Mrs. Stillman.

Beauvais asserts the "Dear Honey" letters and their companions in the series were written for another purpose on the Stillman estate at Grand Anse.

Discrepancies pointed out by the guide include:

"Exhibit B"—Dated February 11, but written on stationery which was not brought to Grand Anse until the following May.

"Exhibit C"—A postscript refers to the enclosure of "the first four-leaf clovers of the Spring," although snow still covered the ground at Grand Anse at the time of ostensible writing, May 20, 1920.

In discussing other "Dearest Honey" letters Beauvais made these points:

All were written in English, whereas one writing easily in French, does would naturally have used that romantic language in correspondence of the heart.

They contain Indian words interspersed with English, contrary to the gentleman's habit of never using expressions foreign to the general language of his writing.

The handwriting resembles that which he affects in business letters such as the fellow employee whom he accuses would have had opportunity to imitate—but isn't at all like an "ultra-mental stunt" he uses in social correspondence.

Beauvais has the reputation of being exceedingly methodical. He always sets to himself, but friends believe he has carbon copies of letters he ever wrote to Mrs. Stillman and can substantiate his

B. U. PROFESSOR SAYS EDISON HIMSELF 'AMAZINGLY IGNORANT'

DECLARES INVENTOR'S TEST GETS 'MONKEY MEMORIES'

A storm has been aroused in collegiate circles as a result of Thomas A. Edison's declaration that college men were "amazingly ignorant," because of their failure to answer the larger part of a list of questions in applying for work at his factory.

In Boston, the mooted home of culture, confirmation of Edison's charges was not lacking. Several professors, readers and understudies have been investigating the matter for a week.

TURNS CHARGE ON EDISON.

One professor, Dugald C. Getchell of the Boston University School of Industrial Administration, went so far as to turn the charge on Edison himself. He declared that the inventor's questions were "monkey memories" and that they did not test the real worth of the Harvard graduate.

20 YEARS BEHIND TIMES.

Mr. Edison, in his recent remarks, stated that his ideas are twenty years behind the times. He urges as a qualifying asset of attainment the ability to teach the boy or girl how to reason. The college tries to give the student the ability to reason, but he will be able to find out any fact necessary in short order. The man who can reason correctly, he says, will be able to find out any fact necessary in short order

DEFEAT BILL TO RAISE AUTO TAX

Representatives Declare People Overtaxed and Measure Fails, 109-64

The House of Representatives by a vote of 109 to 64 today rejected the bill increasing automobile registration fees from $6 to $10 per year.

The bill is a reasonable one," said Representative Frank L. Ingham of Southampton. "The people demand better roads. There are thousands of automobile owners who do not own real estate, and they ought to be compelled to pay the tax which is produced by this bill. There are about 15,000 more autos. The roads must be made safer for the large number of vehicles. They must be made stronger than ever. The state needs the revenue. The rich owner won't pay any more than the poor man under this bill."

"The people are overtaxed," said Representative Everett F. Harrington of Fall River. "Motor vehicle owners have to pay taxes to the national government and to their city or town. The Department of Public Works will receive more than $2,000,000 in fees this year. The bill is absolutely unreasonable."

"Let the Department of Public Works practice economy," said Representative Frank W. Eaton, of Rockland. "If motor trucks have to pay more money, it will add to the cost of living.

"The truck owners burdens are heavy and they should not be increased," said Representative Miles W. Chase of Lynn.

"All prices are coming down," said Representative Fred A. Hutchinson of Lynn, who offered the motion to refer the bill to the next annual session.

"They will be taxing baby carriages next," said Representative Charles P. Hamilton of Lynn.

Representative Jerome S. Smith, of Provincetown, thought the automobile bills "very extravagant." "They are trying to put their legitimate expenses upon other people," he said.

GREET THOMAS AS 'JUDAS'

Workmen at Dock in N. Y. Flaunt Banners Railing at British Labor Chief

New York, May 12.—"He is fleeing from the wrath of England." "Judas hanged himself after the betrayal. Will Thomas do likewise?"

These signs were on hand for the case of J. H. Thomas, head of the National Union of Railway Workers of Great Britain, who arrived in New York aboard the steamship Olympic to attend the opening of the American Legion convention in Kansas City, Mo., next week. Thomas was met by a delegation of dockers, transport workers and seamen, who marched with banners and placards denouncing the British labor leader in no uncertain terms.

Thomas, who was accompanied by his wife, was hustled through the crowd of dockers and into a waiting automobile. They could not be found to be alive. They could know they were on hand to welcome the distinguished visitor. Thomas, who is chairman of the Triple Alliance of British labor, transport and railway workers of England, arrived in this country last week, but prevailed upon Thomas to leave the city by way of a ferry.

"My dear man," said the English labor leader to a questioner, "why you are five years behind the progress of labor in England. Labor is not a class there and will not be a class here. Labor in England is merely a name for everybody. Labor may be defined in England merely thus: they do not work."

NEW POLICE FOR SOMERVILLE

Board of Aldermen to Appoint Only Men Who Reside in That City

Appointments to the Somerville police department, which have been held up for many months because a number of non-residents and former Boston policemen headed the list, will be made at the bi-monthly meeting of the Somerville Board of Aldermen tonight.

Not in the history of the city has there been such a fight waged for appointment to the municipal police force, which pays a salary of $2.50 a day when the officers are on duty.

Recently Mayor Burke and the Board of Aldermen met and discussed the police situation and it was the unanimous opinion of the aldermen that the appointments to the force should be appointed to the city. Since that meeting no officials have been appointed, and it is expected that the names of men with residence in Somerville appear on the list.

HOLYOKE CITY LIGHT SUCCESS

Gives Good Service at Nickel Less Than Edison Plant Here

Students of the business declared today that a city plant in Boston would enable consumers to obtain electricity for light and power as cheap, or nearly as cheap, as the municipal lighting plant in Cleveland sells it for, which is three cents per kilowatt hour. They say such a reduction from the Edison's extortionate rate of eleven cents is worth fighting for.

COST CITY $809,547.

HAS 70,000 POPULATION.

Holyoke showed the pace for other communities in the Bay State. It owns its lighting and power plant, and its water supply; has a municipal pure milk station and owns the majority of stock in the Holyoke & Westfield Railroad.

HOLYOKE PLANT WIDELY KNOWN

"As a result Holyoke pays less for its street lighting than any city in Massachusetts. If it paid the very lowest price charged by any other company in New England, our city would find that it was paying to a private company thousands of dollars more than what our taxes would amount to. For example, during the first fourteen years of the Holyoke municipal lighting plant, we saved the city $131,985, or $131,000 more than our taxes would have amounted to.

Baxter Inclines to Municipal Plant

What Municipal Plant Means for Holyoke

The city of Holyoke, in western Massachusetts, with a population of less than 70,000, has been successfully operating a municipal gas and electric plant for eighteen years.

It bought the plant from the Holyoke Water Power Company in 1902. The cost was $706,543, to which was added $103,004.40 as the result of six years of litigation with the company, making the total cost $809,547.40.

The plant is at present worth more than $2,000,000, an increase in valuation of $1,200,000. The outstanding bonds have increased only $75,000 in eighteen years, which means that the city debt on the plant has increased less than 9½ per cent., as compared with an increase of 150 per cent. in the investment.

The people of Holyoke are being supplied with electricity in their home for 6 cents per kilowatt hour, 5 cents cheaper than consumers are getting it for in Boston from the Edison Electric Illuminating Company.

The Holyoke plant has a "Free Service Bureau," which repairs vacuum cleaners, electric washers, irons, toasters, fans, etc., free of charge.

FOUR BROTHERS ARE BURIED

Thousands Attend Funeral of Trembley Boys Burned to Death in Cambridge

Funeral services for Ledger, Ernest, Warren and Lester Trembley, the Cambridge brothers who were burned to death during a fire at their home, No. 24 Reed street, Tuesday morning, took place at the Church of Notre Dame de Pitie, North Cambridge, with several thousand persons present.

The four caskets lay before the altar with a wreath on each, after having laid in state in the parochial school where they were attended by relatives and friends. A patriotic feature of the services was the fact that the Trembley boys' father, Theophile Trembley, was prostrated and was unable to be present.

Rev. Father Hyacinthe Poirier was celebrant of the mass, the Rev. Father Arthur Gagnon was deacon and the Rev. Father Amedee Bissonnette was sub-deacon. Four acolytes preceded the priests, who were followed by the pall bearers, relatives of the dead boys. The interment was in the parish lot in Mount Auburn cemetery. Burial was in Cambridge cemetery, the services at the grave being conducted by the Rev. Father Poirier.

POLICEMAN "CLEANS UP" STILL AND MOONSHINE

Lawrence, M. May 12.—When Policeman Henry Bissonnette of this city entered the Massachusetts mill in Methuen shortly after noon today, he found a complete moonshine outfit in operation. Further investigation revealed a quantity of moonshine and mash. Two men were arrested, charged with violation of the prohibition law, and were held in $500 bail each for the action of the grand jury.

Fusiliers Observe 234th Anniversary

Harmon's impressions of the anniversary banquet of the Fusilier Veteran Corps at the American House.

With a parade and banquet the Fusilier Veteran Corps celebrated its 234th anniversary. Members of many veteran organizations throughout New England, as well as the Old Guard, New York, were present as guests of the Boston command. The parade, in command of Major of Bowers in tribute to the late Gen. James W. H. Myrick commander of the corps, left the American House and marched to City Hall, where Mayor Peters received it and gave it the key of the city. A wreath was then placed by Governor Cox at the State House.

At the Guild Memorial on the Common, Major Myrick placed a wreath in the guild, former Governor Bates was also present at the Washington Elm, Cambridge, and a boy scout bugler sounded taps. The Navy Yard was represented by Admiral H. O. Dunn.

The annual banquet of the organization was held at the American House.

MAYOR CURLEY'S MOTHER DEAD

Passes Away at Home of Son John, Former City Collector

Mrs. Sarah Curley, mother of former Mayor James M. Curley and former City Collector John J. Curley, died at the home of John, No. 21 Winthrop street, Roxbury, today.

Mrs. Curley was stricken with a severe illness in the early part of last week, and has been unconscious for the most few days. Both sons were at her bedside when she died.

Mrs. Curley was born in Galway, Ireland, about seventy-five years ago. She came to this country, locating in Boston, in 1851. She married Timothy Curley, who was also from Galway, and they lived for many years on Parmenter street, later residing in Dudley street where she has lived since the death of her husband, thirty-two years ago. Besides the two sons mentioned, she leaves a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Curley, who resides with her brother John.

Funeral will be announced later.

WOMAN IN BED CLUBBED

Mrs. Goldstein Victim of Mysterious Attack With Blackjack in Roxbury

A midnight prowler who, reaching through an open window, blackjacked Mrs. Rosie Goldstein, thirty-five, as she lay asleep in bed early today in her home at No. 29 Oak Grove terrace, Roxbury, was being sought by police today.

The woman is at the City Hospital. Her injuries may include a fracture of the skull.

Mrs. Goldstein, thirty-five years old, and mother of five children, sleeps with an infant daughter on the ground floor. When her moans aroused her husband, Harry Goldstein, he found that a tail light was out and that whoever made the attack had seen to the house for some time.

It is believed the motive of the assailant was robbery. Mrs. Goldstein's pocketbook is missing.

The blackjack was left in the room. It weighs nearly 1½ pounds.

STILL PRODUCT USED AS LINIMENT IS CLAIM

Mrs. Bedford, May 12.—That the product sold in New England first-class as a liniment for the ailments for which she was ill was the idea of Frank Arcaral, No. 128 South Bedford street, when he appeared before Coroner Goodspeed, charged with illegal manufacture and possession of alcohol.

Arcaral, who is held in $1000 bail, will be arraigned in the Woburn District Court.

TWO KILLED IN IRISH TERRORS

Raiders in Disguise Invade Galway City Houses and Shoot Occupants

London, May 12.—Galway City, Ireland, was the scene of several shootings Tuesday night. A raid took place, with the claim of a man named Folan, who was recently sent to prison for a political offense.

Six raiding Folan first went to the bedroom of Folan's two brothers, where they shot and killed one brother and wounded the other.

The raiders then went to the house of a railroad man named Tuley. They dragged him from his bed and shot him, killing him instantly.

Later they went to the home of a Mr. Higgins, who fled in his night clothes, escaping the raiders.

The raiders, in disguise, were seen by a number of persons, who reported the matter to the police. They were driven off and pursued by police. They ran to the railroad station where they boarded a train and entered the police barracks. In the melee of the firing of their pursuers the men escaped.

Un-Christian to Whip; Foolish Not to?

"It is brutal and un-Christian to whip children," and "it is foolish soft-heartedness not to" are the conflicting statements which alternate in the letters to the Boston American on the whipping controversy. Some forceful letters on both sides appear today. Address your letter to "Training Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass."

WHIPPING HURTS HEALTHY.

Training Editor, Boston American:

I am a mass of a half-century old and have no children, but I have had experience with them. I am absolutely against the use of the whip on children. A child is a little animal being with a definite organism and whipping or even the threat of whipping is likely to impair its health. The whole idea of whipping is somehow abnormal. The man who whips a child is more or less of a brute. The man who would care naughty children most of them born some fifty or sixty years ago would be all for the use of the whip and very likely the man who would use the whip too often or too severely on the child. Christ plainly disapproved of the use of the whip in connection with the children. I would not be ashamed much less whipped for the same views when the children of

C. G. MARINESCU.

NEVER WHIPS IN ANGER.

Training Editor, Boston American:

I am the mother of four girls, the youngest three. I have always whipped them when I thought it necessary and it has not in any way injured their affections. They respect me and I never whip when I am angry nor do I fail to tell them why I am punished. I have no doubt that every child deserves a whipping. I whip my boy. I do not whip to injure, punish or humiliate, but let the children know that I am the right one to whip them for the children, same offence. I seldom have to whip at all, for they know that punishment inevitably follows disobedience.

MRS. MARY W. WELLS.

Winchester.

BEATEN BOY PROTESTS.

Training Editor, Boston American:

I am a boy sixteen and against whipping. My father and mother beat me with a club, sometimes for nothing. I have been beaten so I could not sit down for days. Being severe and unjustly any good other kinds of punishment are better.

PUNISHMENT IN PRIVATE.

Training Editor, Boston American:

I am a child of seven and my mother whips me when I need it, but I never hated her for it or felt I ought to pay her back. She never shames before others or tells others of it. On the other hand a girl friends of mine is whipped in front of younger brothers and sisters and the mother is in a rage. She hates her mother.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRL.

South Boston.

SPANKED, NOT WHIPPED.

Training Editor, Boston American:

I am visiting Boston this week from Vienna and became interested in letters being sent to your paper. I am a mother of five children. I am against whipping. I spank them when they are naughty, but I never whip them. I have been whipped myself and I know how it hurts. I have never whipped my children and they have never been whipped by their father. When other mothers ask me if they are whipped, I reply, "No, but they are spanked." They are not spanked in anger nor is the punishment too severe, but it is painful. Hot reason must be used one of my boys has no fear of spanking as of course he is punished in other ways.

St. Louis, M. L. A.

"COMMON DECENCY'S" PLEA.

Training Editor, Boston American:

It is nothing more than common decency that makes many people "throw up their hands in horror" at a man striking smaller and weaker human beings.

REASONABLE.

Boston.

GOOD MOTHER KNOWS WHEN.

Training Editor, Boston American:

A mother, and only a good mother, knows when to apply the strap, and when to use "moral suasion." Many a boy and girl who went wrong owes it to soft-hearted shirking mothers who wanted to dodge the disagreeable features of parenthood.

All Mothers Will Find Use For This Laxative

Give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to a constipated child and note its quick recovery.

IN a growing family the subject of thought with the parents is how to keep the children healthy and happy, and what to do when they become ill. Most illnesses of childhood are the symptoms of constipation, such as headaches, coated tongues, flatulence, dizziness, loss of appetite and sleep, biliousness, etc.

You can surely feel safe in doing what tens of thousands of others do with good results, so give, according to the age of the child, a small quantity of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Eight million bottles were bought last year at drug stores. It is America's favorite family remedy for constipation, indigestion and similar ills, and is especially suitable for children, women and old folks as it is so mild and gentle in action.

There is no secret about Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pleasant and pleasant-tasting aromatics. Druggists have sold it for thirty years, and a sixty cent bottle will last for months. Experienced mothers are never without it in the house.

TRY IT FREE

Send me your name and address and I will send you a free trial bottle of my Syrup Pepsin. Address me Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 514 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois. Every body sons and then needs a laxative, and I myself to know the best. Write me today."

HARDING'S PLAN ON WELFARE HIT

Backers of Education Bill Oppose Inclusion in Proposed Bureau

Washington, May 12.—Differences of opinion over the proposed department of public welfare as advocated by President Harding developed at a hearing before the Senate Education and Labor committee.

Representative Towner, of Iowa, joint author of the Towner-Sterling bill creating a separate department of education, was the chief critic of the plan.

OBJECTS TO TRANSFERS.

He asserted that the bureau of Education was not to be made a separate department as could see no reason for its transfer from the Department of Interior to the Department of Public Welfare, as provided in the Curtis bill.

"We do not propose to have a national education work conducted in a single bureau of the contemplated department of Public Welfare," Towner declared. "By no opinion, it is too important to be subordinated to any department whatever."

PHYSICIAN DEFENDS BILL.

Brigadier-General Charles E. Sawyer, the President's personal physician, defended the Kenyon bill, he helped prepare.

He said one of the chief aims of the department was to take care of the expectant mother. Nothing in the good old days, he asserted.

Throw Away That Clumsy Mop and—

Get a MASCO! Get a mop that likes its job. Get a MASCO because it is made to do mopping with. A mop that sticks up its nose at dirty water and tries to push it away isn't to be trusted. The MASCO isn't that kind of a mop. It rolls up its sleeves, bows to it, and presto, the work's all done.

When you buy a MASCO you buy just the mop head—a bundle of soft, clean, extra absorbent yarn. Mvl how absorbent it is. You can almost hear the water gurgle as it rushes into those thirsty absorbent cotton strings. That's why one over with a MASCO equals two over with any other mop. That's why the MASCO will do the work in half the time.

While you are at it buy three MASCO Mops. One handle will do for all. One for a wet mop. Keep one for a dry mop. Wash one in any good floor oil. So dry, and you've got the best oil mop you ever used.

Go to any store that sells mops and ask for a MASCO. You'll know it by its wrapper and trade mark. No other mop is individually wrapped. Ask for the 8 oz. size for household use. For the big job there is a big MASCO.

The 8 oz. MASCO retails for 45c. The 12 oz. for 60c. The 16 oz. for 75c.

For sale by grocers, housefurnishers and hardware dealers and department stores.

Noted Church Controversy Reopened in "Deception"

Scene from spectacular film, "Deception," now being exhibited at the Colonial Theatre, showing Emil Jannings as Henry VIII. and Henry Porten as Anne Boleyn.

'PROXIES' SHOWS KINDNESS BEST

Gripping Film at Modern and Beacon Tells Story of Ex-Burglar

Among the many entertainments of Beatrice Fairfax is a young woman who writes to her on a matter of importance and a great deal of interest. This young woman wants to see "Proxies" at the Modern and Beacon and asks in the following manner:

"Proxies," the great cinematographic production brings to your mind two great truths that kindness always pays and that success is not the only thing worth striving for.

Peter, the main impersonating character, is an ex-burglar and is trying to live straight. He secures a position as janitor and Clare thinks Peter is the person using his name. Mr. Darley is RECOGNIZED BY WARDEN.

At a meeting Mr. Darley attending as trustee to consider the advisability of his prison record being questioned, and readily admitting having been in prison, and tells the warden of the crime and circumstances of it, receives pleas called "Heaven" has stayed him to "the straight."

The simplicity of the country folks at Silver Creek and the feeling of it fatalistically to chase in which the fact that "Heaven" is not the best policy as to "the only thing" worth striving for, thought, and the idea of the little prisoner's sister Clare, thinking her brother makes Peter realize that burglary are bigger fools than are honest men.

Instead of discouraging him, Mr. Darley persuades Peter to return to his employ. Peter is reading to Mr. Darley's children and when Clare wants him to assist in staging a book-reading in Carlotta the laugh, of the sister, Peter, refused, and makes her abandon the part.

PETER STAGES HOLDUP.

At a party given to Charlotta and Homer her fiance the warden comes uninvited, and, staging a Mr. Darley that he holds a grudge, which puts Mr. Darley in his power, and as an alternative, the warden wants to marry Charlotta. Peter, hearing the conversation, and after the two men leave the room with the help of Clare, Peter holds everybody up, and Homer helps them to escape, at Peter's suggestion. The people are all returned, and the only thing found missing is the money.

Clare is captured, and Peter by impersonating a detective, foils the policemen and gives the money to Carlotta as a wedding present to be destroyed immediately, thereby freeing her friend and herself from the power of Slover.

The two characters are married, and as a wedding present, they receive "Best Haven," the place that had so much to do with their decision to "go straight," and the one they loved so well.

FILM TEACHES LESSON.

After seeing the picture, you feel as though you would never condemn any person just because he or she was unfortunate enough to spend time in prison, and that there would be fewer citizens were there more men as kind as Mr. Darley.

The loyalty of Peter, how Homer the intelligent little chap, became a boys by helping to save the jewels at Peter's suggestion; Carlotta's flirtation with Peter, the kindness of Mr. Darley, the little girl's kiss, and other numerous details, all help toward making the picture a great success.

Like various articles listed under the second-hand column, it "has to be seen to be appreciated."

"Volcanoes Cause Blizzards"

This statement is made by scientists after exhaustive investigation into the subject, and proved in detail in next Sunday's Advertiser.

One of history's greatest controversies is dealt with in "Deception" in a manner which is fearless and free, but which has reopened the old argument of whether King Henry VIII. founded the Church of England from profound religious conviction, and got a divorce from Queen Catherine, incidentally, or whether he started his own church primarily to get a divorce.

The picture, Oscar Lubitsch, of the great film now showing at the Colonial, has followed the Catholic version of the big moment in history, and has handled the whole affair very artistically, and so far no religious protest has been heard, even the pulpit has been silent.

PRESS WITH HISTORY.

The picture is not intended to settle any historic question. On the contrary its director frankly admits he took liberties with history. Queen Ann Boleyn, for example, is made quite a different character and guiltless than history judges her.

Whether the picture or his private life is responsible for it, Henry VIII. was a great lover and a bad husband.

Whether the same license in using a historic role from a historic novel is permitted to me, I must leave to the critics. I prefer to be myself. I must have a villain and someone to be defeated.

TOLD KING WAS GENTLEMAN.

Henry is told that King Henry was a gentleman, that he was noted in his domestic happy married, and a great friend for England. That he was very popular with his subjects and the declaration of independence of the Pope was based upon long consultations.

"These things all may be so. History is nothing but a series of lies. History is nothing but a series of lies agreed upon," said Lubitsch, "but the declaration of independence of the Pope was based upon long consultations.

"These things all may be so. History is nothing but a series of lies agreed upon. History is nothing but a series of lies agreed upon. History is nothing but a series of lies agreed upon

In the big, cities they put them in cold storage vaults where the moths can't get at them. Even if the moths could get in the vaults they aren't going to put on a pair of mittens and let moths every time they want a bite to eat.

In a month, a pair of overalls in an entree and a Hudson Seal cape is the dessert.

Nobody ever put a cake of ice in the refrigerator at night and found it eaten by the moths in the morning.

If you've got a valuable sealskin coat you can't go out and find the seal and ask him to keep it for you not I next Winter.

Give your fur coat a chance to meet some of its relatives up in the North.

A mother's son is always her son whether he's a neck piece or a cape.

Just because your seal made it warm for you in the Winter don't make it hot for him in the summer.

If you can't afford to send your fur coat to Alaska put them in the [illegible] refrigerator, and they'll think they're on their way home.

The best way of all to keep a fur is to leave it on the animal.

GIANTS AND CARDS GIVE RECEIPTS TO IRISH FUND

By SAM CRANE.

New York, May 12.—This was a big day for the Irish at the Polo Grounds. Those of that good old school in Manhattan and Jerseybouts enjoy doing their bit for the relief of sufferers in Ireland. What could afford a bigger day for those who donate the price of admission to that most worthy purpose than the game between the Giants and Cardinals?

It will also be a fine day for the sufferers in the Emerald Isle when the thousands of dollars taken in at the Polo Grounds gates this afternoon are distributed among them.

The historical old Polo Grounds has been the scene of many benefits for many worthy purposes, but none appealed stronger to the charitable than that of today.

Not ireland and its sorrowers.

It appeared to nobody than those of Irish blood, as was fully demonstrated this afternoon.

LACE and fur continue to hold a high place in women's favor. This is a most beautiful Summer combination, and may be used for formal and informal occasions. In the model at the left tan lace is combined with fabric in a darker shade of tan. The silhouette attained by the pointed over-drapery is exceptionally smart. In the back the tabs extends to the edge of the skirt. The crush girdle outlines a normal waist line, above which the pointed blouse opens over the lace underblouse. The wide ribbon sleeves are set in about at the shoulder.

A novel linen is used for the girlish little gown at the right. The color is one of the new flame tones so popular at the moment, and the cuffs are of royal blue braid.

The plainness of the sleeveless blouse is relieved by a crisp frill of flame organdie, and from the same material are made three ornaments of blue wool and green jade. This last is an exceedingly amusing touch and one likely to become quite a rage. The tightly rolled parasol is one of the new Chinese affairs of bone, silk and black lacquer.

Making Good Floors

By Loretto C. Lynch

MORE and more folks are forsaking the carpet for the rug. Readers write me asking me how to make wood floors with a maximum of comfort, into good-looking floors suitable for the background for rugs.

The floor must be neat around the edges and then sandpapered well. A floor scraper may be borrowed at any tool shop. It will then be necessary to apply a filler. The filler must be applied with a brush, and after it has set a short time it should be rubbed off with excelsior. If you desire to stain the floor, please do not allow stain and filler to mix. Apply the stain first, and then rub with excelsior. Two coats of stain are usually necessary, and sometimes there have been efficient to the point desired. It is wise to give penetrating stain. It is wise to test the stain on a small piece of just to decide. Allow two days for the floor thoroughly dry before the floor once again to see if the desired depth is reached.

Now apply a thin coat of desired finishing mixture with a brush. Allow one day for drying.

The floor is now ready to be waxed. All that is necessary is to apply the wax with a cloth, and with a scrubbing brush of medium weight. Rub the wax in with the cloth, and when it is dry rub it with a brush. The floor will gradually take on a beautiful polish. After the floor has been waxed for a few months it will be necessary to remove the old wax before applying a new coat. This is done by rubbing with a cloth dipped in turpentine. Apply the wax as before.

Where a floor is very much worn in spots it will be necessary to remove the old finish and refinish the floor. This is a very simple matter and need not be feared by any housekeeper who has the time and patience to do the work.

Savings Bank Life Insurance

Bay State "Experiment" Eagerly Embraced by Thrifty Public as Prophesied at Its Inception by the Boston American.

At the annual dinner of savings bank life insurance delegates this week, attended by nearly 200 persons at Hotel Vendome, the question was tritely asked and answered:

Where are to be found the monuments which have been erected to the men who always played it safe? There are none!

When savings bank life insurance was inaugurated, nearly thirteen years ago, it was hailed with derision by the commercial life insurance companies, who loudly proclaimed that people never had and NEVER WOULD voluntarily apply for life insurance.

Those who advocated the new institution admitted it to be an "experiment," but an experiment based on the proposition that there are in every community persons whose innate sense of thrift will impel them to purchase the necessities of life where those necessities can be found at the lowest cost. They recognized that it was bound to take a certain number of years to accustom people to the idea of buying their life insurance from a savings bank, and without the intervention of an "agent."

Even those who were most ardently enthusiastic about this "experiment" in thrift would hardly have dared to prophesy that within a dozen years the premium income for a single year would amount to $425,000, or that in the first dozen years of operation the banks would have received from policyholders premiums amounting to more than $2,000,000.

That, nevertheless, has been the experience of this unique Massachusetts venture for the benefit of her citizens, which is founded on the theory of self-help, and which has now more than $15,000,000 of insurance in force.

The reports submitted to the delegates further showed the impressive fact that the amounts now reserved for the benefit of the policyholders, together with the amounts actually paid back to them, equal a sum largely in excess of the total amounts received from all policyholders since the system was put into operation.

The law under which savings bank life insurance operates requires that a person shall be a resident of Massachusetts in order to become a policyholder. It permits him to continue his insurance in force, however, after he leaves the State, and so it happens that the savings banks are now receiving insurance premiums from policyholders in every State in the Union, and from every known country in the world. This furnishes another interesting sidelight on the willingness of the common people to help themselves. At considerable inconvenience, and some expense, to themselves, and without solicitation of any kind, they voluntarily send their premiums year after year to the savings bank because they have found that it is for their economic advantage to do so.

Readers of the Boston American will recall that in 1915, when a deliberate attempt was made by certain of the commercial life insurance companies to throw discredit on savings bank life insurance and to halt its further development, the statement was made in this column:

Fundamentally the great difference between the amount of benefits given by savings bank insurance and by the private companies is the inevitable and eternal difference between a business run for private profit and an enterprise conducted as a social service in the public interest.

To that statement more than 30,000 satisfied policyholders now bear conclusive testimony. May the institution continue to grow and prosper!

Small Independent Farmer Bulwark of Democracy

The recent publications of the United States Census Bureau contains several interesting items.

They show that there are about 6,000,000 owners of farms and 2,000,000 tenant farms. Among the tenants are not included farm laborers.

Another item shows that the proportion of foreign born population to native born is less in 1920 than in 1910.

The proportion of tenant farmers to farm owners is altogether too great. As that proportion rises, the danger to a conservative stable democracy increases.

The history of all free governments show us that the small independent agriculturist who owns his own farm, is educated and has access to information affecting the public affairs of his country, is the bulwark of democracy. The tenant farmer helps to move things fast for better or for worse. He is capable of precipitating progress too fast for stability or precipitating reaction beyond the point of recovery.

Those who have a stake in our present economic system and in securing such progressive changes in it as are beneficial by evolution, ought to watch that margin between the men who own and cultivate their own farms and the men who rent them, and no effort ought to be spared to prevent that margin from closing.

The reduction of the percentage of foreign born may be a good thing or it may not. What the country needs is energy, thrift and initiative. Our foreign born, who have come here without money, often without education, are, of course, the most energetic and optimistic and hardy of their class in the countries whence they come, and they come at the producing age, when they are all asset and no liability. It costs us a great deal to rear and support an American child until it reaches a producing age. The cost of rearing the foreign-born child is paid abroad and we take him when he is ready to produce wealth and all the things which the brain, the heart and the sinews contribute to civilization.

It is by no means uncommon to find an alien, despite the abuse which has been heaped upon aliens during the last few years, who is more of an American, admires our institutions more reverently than the American born who is used to them, takes them for granted, never has had to make any sacrifice for them, and, being incapable of thinking abstractly, holds them cheaply. The alien who seems to dislike our institutions will be generally found to dislike, not our institutions, but the way our big business oligarchy administers them.

Altogether it is difficult to say whether we need more or less immigration at any given time. The general rule must be that we can take them only so fast as we can assimilate them. The difficulty of assimilating them, however, is that big business does not want them assimilated, does not want them to be Americanized, does not want them to understand the rights of American citizens under American institutions. Big business wants to exploit them in their helpless, ignorant condition.

MASTER minds and soul dissectors who make knotty problems clear
Might devote themselves with profit to some matters mentioned here:
Why, for instance, does the barber with a bean that's growing bare
Never use the hair restorer that he offers for my hair?
Why do people who have voices like the rasping of a file
Seem to think it is their duty to be talking all the while?
Why do women who are dainty and attractive and refined
Look for large and brawny husbands—the bull-necked and hairy kind?
Why are old maids who could safely walk the streets alone at night
Always worried lest bold villains will be hugging them on sight?
Why are sweets that are forbidden wanted most and dearly prized?
These, it seems to us, are matters to be psycho-analyzed.
Why do people in the cities turn their thoughts to rural charms?
Why do farmers' sons and daughters wish to hurry from the farms?
Why do people who have never helped to populate the earth
Tell us how to raise our children—how to manage them from birth?
Why do women worship titles, tinsel, uniforms and braid?
Why's a pretty little widow more attractive than a maid?
Let the heavy thinkers tell us why the things we ought to learn
Are the things we hate to study, and avoid at every turn;
Why is wickedness so pleasant, why is goodness dull, and why
Is it always less exciting to be truthful than to lie?
Why is kissing most enchanting when it's in forbidden trysts?
We are waiting for the answer from the psycho-analysts.

Ye TOWNE GOSSIP

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By K. C. B.

Dear K. C. B.: Seven years ago a man robbed me of—well, the dearest possession I had. My subsequent actions, rash actions in which I practically lost all, were a direct consequence of what this man had done to me. Assuming that there is some publication for the unwritten law, the provocation here warranted its application—but I forbore.

Since then, I have come back. And now, in a most singular manner, fate has placed this man's entire future in my hands. I have the power to humiliate him, to bring him to his knees, and I still forbear.

The commencement of the power I hold will leave this man unaware of my possession of it, rendering the "scale of fire" theory ineffective, while leaving me still free to pursue his consistent attitude of insulting unconsciousness and open insult.

I am conversant with the Biblical theory, "seventy times seven," and the divinity of forgiveness, as well as the misleading "eye for an eye" admonition. By employing the power I remain well within the limits of legitimate—as distinguished from the moral—principles of mere business.

Don't tell me, K. C. B., of the suffering of his innocent children, as the monetary aspect is incidental; besides, he is unmarried. I am constrained to—and yet, and yet—I await your reply.

A CHRISTIAN—I hope.

IF I were you,
I'D FIND the man
WHO TOOK from me
WHAT I most prized
AND SIT with him
AND SAY to him
"I HAVE come here
"TO SAY to you
"THAT IF I would
"I COULD destroy
"ALL THAT you have,
"AND I'VE just called
"TO LET you know
"I COULD do this.

"AND FURTHER say,
"THAT WHAT I have
"I WILL not use,
"THAT'S WHAT I'd do
SO HE would know
THAT GODLIKE men
WERE STILL on earth
AND WHO it is.
HARMS ANY man
HARMS MOST himself.
I WOULD be glad
AND LIGHT of heart.
IF I were you,
TO DO this thing
IN JUST this way

I THANK you.

DIVIDING UP CIRCLE OF THE EARTH AND SKY

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE division of the circle into 360 equal parts is of unknown antiquity. It is supposed to have arisen among the ancient Chaldeans, who were, perhaps the earliest systematic observers of the heavenly bodies.

It has been conjectured that it may have taken its rise from the number of days in the year, at first roughly assumed to be 360. But so gross an error as five whole days in the calculated length of the year would become evident in the course of a single generation on account of the rapid displacement of the seasons which it would cause.

Astronomical Origin

If an astronomical or astrological origin is to be sought for the division of the circle, it might more probably be ascribed to a combination of the number of days in a month and the number of months in a year. The former was observed to be about thirty, and the latter twelve, and thirty multiplied by twelve gives 360.

At any rate, however the first suggestion of the 360-degree division may have arisen, it was found to furnish a very convenient multiple. The twelve months fitted into it nicely to give the twelve signs of the zodiac. It is significant that in China in early times the circle was divided into 365 instead of 360 parts, and this is strongly suggestive of an astronomical origin, based solely on the annual motion of the sun.

The Alexandrian astronomer Ptolemy, in the second century, formulated the division and subdivision of the circle in the shape in which they remain today. Every circle was divided into 360 parts, every part into sixty parts, minutes (primus first small parts), and every one of these into sixty more minutes (secundus second small parts), which Latin expressions show the origin of our "minutes" and "seconds," which are applied also to subdivisions of the hour.

Upset Everything

It is true that at the time of the French Revolution—when, as usually happens during such convulsions, the extremists wished to upset everything and begin all over again—the circle was divided into 400 parts or degrees, and these were subdivided according to the decimal system, on system of tens. But this, like the "revolutionary calendar," was not enduring. In using the meridian of Paris for the origin of longitude, the French follow a universal system of great nations, based partly on patriotic considerations. Latterly, however, by common consent, all the maritime nations use the meridian of Greenwich for nautical purposes, but the "home" meridian is often employed for astronomical and geological purposes.

Fight With Big Devil Fish

A BATTLE between a giant devil-fish and a transatlantic liner's carpenter sounds like one of Jules Verne's dreams. But it occurred, nevertheless, off Lisbon on the morning of April 17, when the liner Caronia, two days out of Queenstown, was bound for New York. Something monstrous and hideous invaded the ship, left on deck by a receding wave.

"What's that?" asked the ship carpenter, could hardly believe his eyes when out of the mass emerged a swirling mass of tentacles, and an immense, shapeless, tentacle-like head with two great eyes.

Another hit his weapon. A third fastened its suckers on the unfortunate. When his cries brought aid, the parrot beak of the monster was ready to rend him.

FLIPPANCY OF JUDGES BECOMES MENACE

By Dr. Charles Fleischer.

I America every person of distinguished ability and position are likely to take on a commercial flavor. And this holds true of judges.

The least we can ask of a judge is that he shall serve as a symbol to the dignity and majesty of the law.

America, with its diminishing respect for authority and its lack of reverence, is daily becoming more notable for a growing failure in self-control even on the part of those to whom honor is due.

The superior person (whatever he may be) is not favored from the need of the respect of others as an added means of self-respect.

It is not surprising that American increasing disregard for the judiciary is producing frequent exhibitions of judicial triviality and even flippancy.

Since, obviously, our judges often act under either impulse and temptation other than good and holy justice, it is no wonder Roosevelt proposed the recall of judges and of judicial decisions. One presumes that even many of Judge would like to recall a few decisions at least of his colleagues!

We have heard the story—it is a true one—of certain judges who said to the prisoner awaiting sentence: "Have you anything to say?" "Yes, your honor," was the reply. "Whom you let out you'll be thirty," said the judge.—Next!"

True in Spirit

Now, that is not funny, but flippant. That judges and clerks are only human, we all know from time to time the result of American disrespect for law, and he is the source of further failure in that quarter.

Judge Landis, who has lately been so much in the eye of the public, has shown a sense of responsibility to morality or to the cause of law and order by his severest treatment of the young sailor who had been found guilty of robbing his bank.

Judge Landis considered the case a man's case, and condemned his employers because he felt that they had tempted the boy to discover himself underpaid and overworked.

One wants to be kind, humane, sympathetic. These qualities are necessary to every judge. But, after all, certain elements tend so easily toward criminality that it behooves a judge to be above all things the guardian of those last remnants of morality which the law demands.

Pay for the Fun

A judge ought to cooperate with the police in making the hinkumpuss pay something for the fun of indulging its low ways.

Permanent best writing about judicial flippancy might be more judicially flippant in its assigning menacing social responsibility to those guilty of criminal offenses by making the generous allowance for contributing causes.

Perhaps that is a matter of opinion, but it is certainly obvious that there can be no virile moral health without holding every one accountable for his conduct. To evade or to belittle responsibility is undergird is to undermine all social morality.

Judges, we know, allow ministers and teachers—all of whom are rarely remunerated considering the value of their services—to work their splendid heads off, while many of the average workers in hoeing on his job.

The Other Side

There are two sides to the axiom that labor is entitled to the fruits of his labor. The other side is that no one has any right to work at once having agreed to work for any particular price, each of us must grow all of himself to the job.

Or else we are cheating.

However, we were talking of proper flippancy.

Without meaning to play the part of Mrs. Partington trying vainly to sweep back the Atlantic ocean, we want of our humble contribute toward stemming the tide of American irreverence and smartness, whose end is success and whose hymn is "Me."

Instead of countenancing the descent of indecent and other objectionable persons from their pedestals it were well if all of us learned to walk with more measured tread and more responsibility.

The older people would be among prim as puritans or solemn as owls if it isn't necessary to become flippant.

After all, life is no joke. Even a judge couldn't make us believe that.

Fashion's Fault

"I don't see as much of you lately as I used to," he complained.

"No," she replied. "Longer skirts are coming back. I've let mine down an inch."

Ominous Silence

We are not getting much news from Russia now. The people over there must be doing things that England doesn't want us to hear about.
